Hundreds of Women and Children Are Hewed to Pieces by Crazy Indian Soldiers when Tripoli Falls—English Officer Protests

London, Nov. 18.—The agitation for the alleged atrocities by the Turkish army in Tripoli, conducted by the Turkish press and supported by a few members of the house of commons from English newspapers, correspondents concerning the recent account of the Turkish army in Tripoli, received fresh impetus tonight through a telegram received by a news agency from Herbert Montagu, a second lieutenant of the Fifth Division.

Lieut. Montagu telegraphed from Zoukhrat by way of Beirut, on the frontier of Syria, and informed me that it was his duty to send to you the following telegram and I beg you in the name of Christianity to publish it throughout England. I am an English officer now voluntarily serving in the Turkish army here. As you know already about the ferocious reaction which the Turks and Arabs are offering the Englishman, or any true soldier in the world, I imagine my feelings when entering and seeing the Turkish army here. ## NEW GENERATOR WILL BE NEEDED

That the 2,000 kilowatt electric generator now under construction at the powerhouse was not ordered by the city administration "took the bolt by the horns," in the nick of time this past summer, is evidenced now by the increased demand for electric power. Increased street car service, more street lighting, and numerous demands for horsepower from individuals and corporations conducting a miscellany of industries, has been driving the city to the limit of its capacity to supply an abundance of power has become a question of the hour. The power house, which the Northern Territory and other industries will be calling for power very shortly.

The new electric machine is being fast put into form through the work of the city engineer, Mr. J. H. McLeod, and is being fitted to the conditions of the power house. The conditions of the power house are being fitted to the conditions of the power house.

(Special to The Capital.)
Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 18.—Although no definite word has yet been received that the first agreement between the miners and the operators has been arrived at, there is a well founded belief that the service given to the miners will resume work here on Monday morning. It was learned today from future deficits operation of the Galt mine in Manitoba.

"Yes," stated Mr. Patterson, discussing the matter, "it is true that the unionists intend recommending to the government a number of important changes. These changes are recommended on account of the fact that this year's operations will result in a loss. Even if there is no agreement, the recommendations will still be made. It will make a very material improvement in every way and at the same time will yield a revenue sufficient to pay."

COMPLETE JURY BY JANUARY

ELEVEN TALESMEN HAVE BEEN ACCEPTED TO DATE—FOURTH VESURE UP

(Western Associated Press.)
Los Angeles, Nov. 18.—The fourth venire in the McNamee murder trial appeared today before Judge Walter. He said: "I cannot rid my eyes of it. I am still sick and trembling with fear day and night. With sinister ramifications the canon proclaimed the ubiquity of ultimate death. I spared none. But it was not that that upset me, for we were at war, and before coming here, we prepared for the scenes of the wounded and the sight of the dead, but what we have not had to look upon is this driving of forty men in the name of Harry Chandler, a son-in-law of General Harrison Gray, this preparation of the Los Angeles Times, and himself president of the company which publishes the paper."

Aside from the examination of venires by the judge, a session of court was held, some members of the venire for the defense vying to be Saturday in which to clear up their private business. With eleven talesmen accepted as to come, the hope that Monday will see the twelfth juror and the beginning of preliminary challenges. Three probably will reduce the number of talesmen in the box to about three.

New Year day, 1912, will see a full jury in the box in the expectation of counsel.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—A short sitting of the International Waterways commission was held here today when H. S. Oler, an inhabitant of the United States, and James Power, Canadian agent, asked the commission for a permit to divert certain streams of water in northwestern Ontario for power development.

DECLARES PROMINENT ENGLISH DIPLOMAT—CITY OF HANKOW IS BURNING—FOREIGN CONCESSIONS THREATENED—PRELIMINARY CONSTITUTION IS ADOPTED

Peking, Nov. 18.—The action of Prince Ching, the regent, in accepting today on behalf of the throne, the draft of a basis of a new constitution for China is considered to show his willingness to grant any demand of the people which is supported by arms. ## UNEARTH A STRANGE SKELETON IN SOUTHERN KANSAS CAIRN

(Western Associated Press.)
Junction City, Kas., Nov. 18.—Bones believed to be those of a prehistoric unknown race, gigantic in stature, have been unearthed on the farm of John Roland, near this city. The bones were taken from a cave about three feet in diameter and five feet high, and were found buried originally in a rough stone arched tomb. Several skulls of unusual size and distinctly unlike the cranium of an Indian in shape were found. The high bones and muscles are longer than the average of the race. It was while leveling away the Cairn to make way for a house that Roland came upon the wall-in tomb. He had the dirt removed from the wall. He found it had supported an arch which had caved in, filling the interior of the tomb with soil. Bones were found only near the wall, where they had been protected by the stones. No other human remains were found, which is strange, as the bones are those of an unknown race. One of the skulls had been placed, evidently with a strange weapon.

The walls of the tomb were 10 feet thick and made of great un-hewn stones. The arched roof did not exceed four feet in height. A passage three feet wide was found to lead into the room from the outside.

NOTHING IN SURPLUSES TO CAUSE ELATION

Incomplete figures on the municipal utilities indicate that all except the street railway will show a surplus. The loss on the street railway will not be more than $20,000 and the total loss on the enterprise to date is less than $60,000 for the three years, against which the city owns a franchise worth a million.

In considering municipal enterprises it is worthy of attention that the statement which shows a surplus is not as satisfactory as a statement which shows a low rate. It is not the purpose of municipal ownership to pile up a profit on operation, but to give better service for less money.

So that, while it is satisfactory to know that the light, power and telephone business are in good financial condition, there is nothing in the surplus to get highly elated about; neither is there anything in a deficit on the street railway to get pessimistic about. The surpluses will be wiped out by reduced rates at some later date and the deficit on the street railway will be wiped out by increased earnings, probably within the year.

But the object, aim, purpose and intent of the whole thing is to give the public more for the money than they could get from a private company. So far the city of Edmonton has succeeded in doing this, and to this extent municipal ownership is a success in Edmonton.

IS CHAMP CLARK FOOL OR DISSEMBLER?

Champ Clark's declaration that if nominated on that plank he would carry every state in the union for the annexation of Canada brands him as either a gigantic fool or a very astute servitor of the interests.

When reciprocity was before the United States house of representatives Clark made a speech in which he declared that reciprocity would lead to annexation. This speech was immediately seized upon by the Canadian anti-reciprocity press as an evidence that the Americans in offering a tariff arrangement were actuated by a desire to absorb Canada, and so strongly did Clark's declaration, coupled with Taft's parting of the ways speech, work on the imagination of eastern Canadians that the defeat of reciprocity could almost be attributed to these foolish utterances.

If Clark does not know that there is no chance of the United States absorbing Canada he must be the biggest fool in public life on this continent today.

If Clark is not such a fool, then his annexation buncombe must be taken as a very astute piece of dissembling for the purpose of scaring Canadians away from an arrangement which would eventually put the protectionists in both Canada and United States out of business altogether.

REPRESENTATION BY POPULATION

Of every 60 electors in the Dominion of Canada 29 voted for reciprocity to 31 who voted against it. Yet the 29 sent only 87 representatives to parliament, whereas the 31 sent 131.

What makes it look like an overwhelming defeat for reciprocity is the inequality in the size of the parliamentary districts. In the maritime provinces and Ontario there are districts where majorities such as were recorded in Alberta and Saskatchewan would have been sufficient to change five or six votes. And this in the face of the fact that a Nova Scotia or a Prince Edward Island vote is in some instances worth two or even three Alberta votes, proportionate to the representation.

In the face of this fact, the maritime premiers come to Ottawa with a request that the representation of the maritimes be not diminished in accordance with the British North America act, but that they be allowed to send to parliament the same number of members no matter what their population may be and no matter how largely the population of the west may overshadow them.

Representative government in Canada is already almost a thing of the past, as the figures on reciprocity show. But to accede to the demand of the maritimes and perpetuate this system would be to abandon the principle of representative government altogether. Better far to split the dominion at the lakes and allow the east to look after itself, while the west made its own laws.

The western provinces were not consulted in the making of the British North America act. It was a condition already fixed when they entered confederation. In it the basis of representation was set down, and the cardinal principle intended to be fastened on the dominion was that a vote in any part of the dominion should be of the same relative value.

Were the west to accede to the demands of the eastern provinces and allow an arrangement by which a member might be elected in the east by one-half or even one-quarter the number of electors necessary to elect a member in the west, Canada would go back a century to the system of pocket boroughs, and its government would become an oligarchy in the hands of a very few electors, said electors being of the very part of the country which should have least to say, the part of the country which is standing still.

As the vote on reciprocity very clearly shows, the west must stick absolutely to a literal interpretation of the British North America act. To sacrifice to the smallest extent the principle therein contained would be to forfeit the hope of the west that it will some day be able to control the fiscal policy of the dominion and tear down the tariff wall which is handicapping the west.

CEASE WORK ON ONE G.T.P. BRANCH

CONSTRUCTION OF BIGGAR-CALGARY LINE IS STOPPED ON ACCOUNT OF FROST

Construction work on the Biggar-Calgary line of the G.T.P. has been stopped owing to the frost, according to James Foy, one of the contractors on the line who is in Edmonton today. Mr. Foy has been engaged at grading work on the line throughout the summer, starting first on a contract on the first fifty-mile contract to Platon and Stirling and then moving out to the next fifty miles, which was let later in the summer on the completion of the first contract.

"The grade of the road to a distance of sixty miles from Biggar is now ready for the steel," said Mr. Foy, at the Yale hotel this morning.

Spending progress has been made on the fifty-mile stretch of grade for which the contract was let during August and with a month of good weather, early next spring the grade should be completed to about 101 miles from Biggar. Nearly all the contractors have closed work owing to the frost, but a few are still at work in the lighter soil and are hoping that the weather will be so good that they will be able to do more work this fall.

Spending progress has been made in the district through which the Biggar-Calgary line passes. Some farmers have received as much as ninety-five bushels per acre of oats. Others who were able to sow their grain are not so fortunate. Flax that was sown early matured well and the early wheat also was a good crop.

WOULD PROVE OF VALUE TO FARMERS

MEMBER FOR DISBURRY HAS NEW SCHEME FOR PROVIDING AD-EQUATE HAIL INSURANCE

Taxation of the land values of Alberta as the basis of a provincial system of hail insurance, the policy advanced by J. E. Stauffer, M.P.P., of Disbury, who this morning outlined his Capital report a plan which he believes will settle for all time the problem which has exercised the farmers and the legislature of the province during recent years.

Mr. Stauffer came into the city this morning from the south, the day in Edmonton. He visited the government buildings this morning in company with the Campbell, M.P.P., of Ponoka, and held a consultation with members of the cabinet who are now in the city. The hail insurance question is one in which Mr. Stauffer has taken a peculiar interest, and in conversation with the Capital he suggested a policy which he declared would work to the ultimate advantage of the farmers as a whole. It would provide an equitable basis of taxation, imposing no penalty on industry, but rather subsidizing it, while robbing the spender of some of the advantages which he now enjoys.

"Provincial taxation for hail insurance is, I believe, the only satisfactory plan," said Mr. Stauffer. "And I am of the opinion that a valuation rather than an acreage basis should be adopted. It is a simple matter. All wild land would be assessed on the same basis as cultivated land in the same vicinity and enjoys the same natural advantages. It would be unfair to impose a heavier tax on the farmer who has spent time and energy in the cultivation of his land, in the erection of buildings and fences and the plowing up of the soil, than is imposed on the speculative holder of an adjoining uncultivated area of good land. I would in fact go so far as to impose the man who improves his property. I would impose a smaller tax upon him than upon the man who does nothing to increase the value of his holding."

"I would classify the land as 'improved,' 'unimproved,' and 'unusable.' The owner of improved land and unusable land should pay the smaller average tax; the owner of land of good quality should pay the larger tax. In arriving at the assessment of the land, and of the water supply, distance from railroads, and general transportation facilities, and all such factors should be taken into consideration. The man who is pioneering in the new country, far from the avenues of commerce, should not be called upon to bear any large fraction of the burden. The man who holds or farms land near to a railroad, should bear a larger share."

Mr. Stauffer is of the opinion that the hail insurance tax might well be administered by the new rural municipalities which are to be created by legislation at the forthcoming session. The municipalities will be empowered to control general taxation. In accordance with the bill to be introduced by Hon. Duncan Marshall, the hail insurance tax might be levied and collected.

Dismissing the causes of the defeat of the liberal candidates in the by-elections in southern Alberta, Mr. Stauffer said that he had spent a considerable portion of the four in the four constituencies during the recent campaign, and was of the opinion that the failure of Dominion politics was mainly responsible for the conservative successes. It was a remarkable circumstance, he said, that in three of the four constituencies, the strength of such anti-reciprocity vote was poll in a federal election was to be found. The electorate were still overshadowed by Dominion issues, and as a matter of fact provincial politics played a small part in determining the issue.

Robert Shaw, M.P.P. for Stettin, was in the city yesterday.

SEIZE LIQUOR IN TOWN OF EDSON

TWO DOZEN BOTTLES TURNED OVER TO THE HOSPITAL AID FOR MEDICINAL USE

Two dozen bottles of liquor seized at Edson by the liquor license detectives in the early part of the week, have been granted to the women's hospital aid of the Grand Trunk Pacific town for use for medicinal purposes. The president of the organization wired F. G. Foster, the provincial license inspector, immediately after the seizure was made, asking this concession.

Concealed beneath a carload of hay on a Grand Trunk Pacific train bound west, the detectives of the liquor license department this week discovered some 400 quarts of liquor, the largest consignment of contraband booze which has, so far as is known, been sent into the prohibition territory along the lines of the G. T. P. and C. N. R. since the beginning of construction. The liquor was seized at Edson, brought into Edmonton yesterday and will be stored by the department and eventually sold by tender.

In the main the smugglers' cargo consisted of rye, but whiskies and wines of every brand were to be found in the consignment.

On Wednesday the department sold by tender from another seizure, some 15 gallons of liquor.

SURVEYORS BACK FROM THE FRASER

After spending the summer in the valley of the Fraser river between Moose Lake and Tete Jean Lake, surveying out British Columbia government lands, a party of surveyors bearing all the earmarks of the free life of the wilderness, returned to Edmonton from the west last evening. There are ten men in the party and they are in charge of M. M. Hewitt. They were hired out by square mile to the valuable land in the valley of the Fraser river and for a short distance up the valley of the Granberry river, along which the C. N. R. main line will follow on its way to the Thompson river by way of the Alberta pass.

Next summer their work will be to survey the lands in the Granberry valley to where that stream is joined by the Cause river. During the past summer they surveyed about 1,000 acres which will be disposed of as the new British Columbia government sees fit.

The members of the party, which left Edmonton to go into the country, their last night July, are M. M. Hewitt, Elliott, J. McKen, W. Walker, J. Emery, S. Barnes, G. Burrows, M. Dawson, M. Kilgill and H. Watson. Speaking to a Capital representative this morning one of the men said that the summer months—farmers, railway contractors and laborers are everywhere along the river between Moose Lake and the Cache.

Much of the land laid out by the surveyors is rocky and unfit for cultivation. Squatters have plied their stakes in some of it and their rights will be recognized by the government when the survey is completed. The lower parts of the valley are very fertile and suitable for raised farming or fruit raising. Transportation facilities will be afforded by the Grand Trunk Pacific and C. N. R. lines.

THE LATEST WORD IN WOMEN'S WEAR

The Chief Creation in the Premier Fashion Centres of the World—How They Are Made, When to Wear
Them, and What They Cost

New York, Nov. 4.—The season has advanced far enough to justify the prediction that soft chignons and wavy hair will be the accepted materials for cutting dresses and suits for several street years. The woman who has a hair series suit will find it decidedly stylish, especially if it is trimmed with satin or fur.

An extremely attractive model for an evening frock for fall, displayed in one of the fashionable shops, was of a simple blue serge with an almost invisible pleated waistline in the back and it was trimmed with long bands of black and black velvet satin. The bodice was cut with half-length kimono sleeves from the shoulder line, back to the front, and a two-inch belt. The skirt was according to the shibboleth of the season. One side of the bodice was finished with a deep square reverse, which filled from the shoulder almost to the waist and was bordered with a band of striped silk, interlaid at the corner. A satin-covered button and simulated lapels caught it down to the front of the bodice. The left side of the bodice folded under perfectly plain, but had attached to it a lace-trimmed roll of white tulle, which peeked out from underneath the revers. A similar roll finished the round neck.

High-collared cuffs of satin, laid over the sleeves. The bodice and skirt were lined with a narrow striped fabric, which fastened in front with a satin-covered button. The skirt was perfectly plain, excepting for a shaped band of satin about the hem. It opened at the left side of the front and was cut up from the lower edge for twelve inches, where a pleating of silk was set in underneath, giving the skirt a slight fullness at the hem. Satin-covered buttons built this opening in place over the silk insert. The frock was extremely simple, yet attractive for an all-around dress, which can be worn all winter under a long coat or with fur. When a new fall is introduced in the fashions, Paris immediately takes it up, and in a short time it is seen on every street where it can possibly be used. Last season brought out the one-sided effect in evening gowns. During the summer this has been seen for the first degree in lingerie dresses, and the fall models of reception and afternoon gowns showed the note strongly emphasized.

Among the most recent importations from the great fashion centers of Europe the one-sided effect on coats is strongly marked. Cloth coats show the style by having one broad reverse and one quite narrow, or just one very broad square revers, while the other side of the coat is perfectly plain, folded and buttoning under the revers. Some are made with one broad reverse framed with braid and a small plain one; others have one revers cut in a fancy shape, while the other is long and plain, lying over like a shawl collar.

Often the cuffs and one deep revers will be of fur with ermine, seal, skunk or beaver, while the opposite side of the coat folds under perfectly plain. Fur coats are treated in a like manner. One side will show a facing and revers of a different fur from the main portion of the coat. In fur, however, there is less opportunity to give this effect, but still it is seen on the newest for garments.

Among the charming models of the frocks for the street and for general wear, included in the latest importations of a certain fashionable shop were a number of frocks of chiffon. One of the deepest violet chiffon over white opened down the front from the neck to hem, or, at least, appeared to. A narrow striped cord band of violet tulle bordered the overlapping side and tulle buttons and loops were set down the entire front just inside of this band, which turned at the hem and under the bodice of the skirt. The known bodice had a V-shaped opening at the neck bordered by a tulle-trimmed plaid roll or the finest trim. There were similar folds turned back upon the loose short sleeves. A wide strip of tulle on either side of the waist only an inch or so above the natural waist line, and was tied in a bow at the back, held flat by a rectangular buckle made of enameled tulle, and it fell in long wide folds, one over the other, down the back of the plain skirt.

Among the attractive black chiffons, one wore a wide folded striped in black, one over white in done a black foundation and trimmed in brocade machine. In one case the velvet chiffon completely covered the under robe and was made with the utmost simplicity.

More dressy, though very practical, are the models in which the chiffon does not veil the entire frock, being used merely for a tunic or in combination with silk. Some of the new tulle street costumes are made up with chiffon used almost or quite as freely as the silk, the frock being largely of the chiffon, with deep skirt trimmings and coat of the tulle.

There are attractive frocks in Scotch plaid chiffon in blue and green trimmed in black velvet and made becoming by collars of embroidered muslin. Other chiffon models are trimmed simply with narrow fringe in self-color. Tulle and chiffon frocks have long sleeves and short-waisted bodices almost hidden under big folds of soft fine material delicately embroidered.

Veils are once more becoming fashionable and a large variety of them is offered in the shops. Dotted veils in simple and fancy meshes and the plain hexagonal, in a heavy mesh are very becoming types. Lace veils are in every variation of the bobble or shadow designs. Those in large patterns are much worn and are usually in the shadow mesh with a sheer design in the form of a flower, in scroll effect, or in a scattered all-over design.

Tinted veils, in which there is a faint tinge in black, around the complexion veils in the shadow effects. One in flesh pink with intersecting hairlines and tiny shadow squares of black is a favorite.

Fillet meshes on which are wrought large chintilly leaves and floral designs are among the new veils. On a large hat which holds the veil away from the face, the style is quite smart.

Many of the new skirt models are in overskirt effect, some being edged with fringe. The drop skirt is mostly of satin or velvet.

Princess will be seen on nearly all of the new costumes, for afternoon and evening wear, on house gowns, negligees, parlors and even on hats.

Many of the new skirts are fitted with a seam over the right hip and a long, straight dart over the left hip.

The new models show high-waisted effects on skirts and very slightly short-waisted effects on coats and frocks.

FAST WORK ON THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

Contractor Tells of Progress in Track Laying and Grading—Steel Has Passed the Yellowhead

(Western Associated Press)
Vancouver, Nov. 4.—J. W. Stewart, of Foley, Welch and Stewart is here from a trip of inspection of the G. T.P. He was accompanied on his trip by Chief Engineer Kelliker. He stated that the rails have already been laid across summit of the Rocky mountains at Yellowhead Pass, and that the track laying gangs working down the western slope are expected to reach a point twenty miles east of Tete Jaune Cache before the middle of the month.

Equally rapid progress is expected to be made with the completion of the four hundred mile gap across central British Columbia between Alberni, in Buckley Valley, and Tete Jaune Cache. The right-of-way about the south fork of the Fraser, to a point fifty miles west of Tete Jaune Cache, and in the direction of Fort George has already been cleared. At the western end of the work, the clearing of the right-of-way has been finished in the direction of Fraser Lake.

When the working gangs move in opposite directions meet and break up, Messrs. Foley, Welch and Stewart will enjoy the distinction of having built the entire line from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan to Prince Rupert, one thousand four hundred miles.

STRAY TOPICS FROM NEW YORK TOWN

Suffragettes Determined to Play Important Part in the Coming Campaign—Danger of Water Famine Force Authorities to Make an Investigation.

New York, Nov. 4.—An enterprising company is trying out an experiment in Newark, N.J., and it is thought that the enterprise is to furnish the subscribers general news, stock reports, sporting news and even advertisements of theatres and legitimate sales, by telephone, together with instrumental music and vocal selections interspersed at odd times, when there is nothing of greater importance to communicate. During the world's championship series between the Athletics and the Cubs, the company furnished the subscribers complete reports of the progress of the game by means of the telephone. The enterprise bears the name of the Telephone Herald and is organized like a daily newspaper. The news and other information is received through the ordinary channels and is sent down to about fifteen hundred subscribers, instead of being sent to the common people, who are the "copy" is turned over to a reader, who reads the news in a clear and distinct voice, into a microphone, distributing it by means of telephone. As a novelty the plan made quite a hit in Newark. One department stated that fifty sets of apparatus installed for the use of its patrons and these cars were in great demand all day long. As the service begins at eight o'clock every morning and continues until midnight, the subscribers who wish to get the full benefit of the service must have to stay at the telephone all day, which, of course, few would or could do. However, the company sends out a schedule every morning, which gives the program of the service for the whole day, especially the time for the beginning of the very first story. This makes it possible for men and three in the afternoon, they could get a "full meal," for twenty-five cents of a standing-up lunch for even less. The closing of the restaurant has caused serious to many of the regular patrons of the establishment, who will now be compelled to return to less inviting lunch places. It is expected that an effort will be made to raise funds with a view of continuing the restaurant upon a co-operative basis, without the assistance of Mrs. Belmont.

The Woman's Suffrage party, the latest champion in the political arena of this city has arrived, so to say. The party held its convention the other day and adopted its platform, a rather interesting document, prepared by Mrs. Clarence Mackay and read by her at the convention. Considering the lack of experience by which the majority of the delegates were handicapped the proceedings of the convention were conducted in a surprisingly business-like manner.

"That the suffragettes are determined to take an active part in the political campaign became apparent the other day when a swarm of them, in automobiles, invaded the Fourth Assembly District to start a vicious campaign against Assemblyman Louis A. Guillevin, who favored the disapproval of the woman's suffrage proposition. One of the informal campaign meetings was held by the women right in front of Mr. Guillevin's district headquarters. The audience was particularly numerous and by no means hostile. It may be recalled that the seating remarks of the feminine Georges.

George A. Leek, who presided last year for General Grant for president of the United States forty years ago, put in an appearance in the thirty-first Election district in the Fourth Assembly District at Bayview, the other day and registered. He gave his age as 75. All the years since 1836 he had been employed by the Long Island railroad and his duties were such that he was unable to get away to vote. At short time ago he was retired on a pension, and took the first opportunity of resuming his rights as an American citizen.

Papers were filed the other day in the damages against the owners of the brewery for damage to his property by the refrigerating plant. The owner of the tenement house, who had lowered the temperature around the plant to such an extent that the tenants of the house were unable to keep their apartments warm. To keep his tenants he was compelled to reduce the coal several times, and finally the low rent charged by him was not sufficient to induce tenants to rent apartments in his chilly building. He adds the brewery concern responsible for the damage to his property and demands what he considers an adequate compensation for his losses.

ROPE ABOUT NECK NEGRO GETS AWAY AFTER TAKING CONFESSED SLAYER FROM SHERIFF THE MOB BUNGLES WORK

Washington, Ga., Nov. 3.—After having confessed that he assassinated C. J. Hollenhead, a prominent merchant and planter, A. B. Walker, a negro farm hand on the Hollenhead place, tonight escaped from a mob which had taken him from the sheriff after a rope had been placed about the negro's neck, and just as the posse was in the act of strapping him up to a limb, the black's escape was sensational, and would be unbelieveable except for the fact that country officers and citizens of Washington, on trail of the mob satisfied themselves that the negro made a clever getaway. According to Washington tonight, A. B. Walker, a well-known citizen, with the officer's posse, stated that the negro undoubtedly escaped. Whiskey flowed from among members of the mob, and this fact probably accounts for the black's escaping death.

Hollenhead was assassinated in his store two miles from this place this evening about 8 o'clock. Two negroes were in the store at the time. They secured from him a confession of slaying Hollenhead. He was carried a mile from town, where hasty preparation was made to string him up to the limb of an oak, the branches of which overspanned the highway. The mob appeared nonplussed and dispersed.

NEWSY LALONDE GREAT ON THE PUBLICITY GAG

Keeps the Eastern Sporting Scribes Busy With His Small Talk

Newsy Lalonde is keeping the eastern sport writers busy with a breezy line of small talk, which makes interesting reading to the hockey and lacrosse fans. This from a Montreal paper is his latest effusion:

"Newsy Lalonde is in town. He says he is on a farewell trip, and that unless something startling happens he will be in Vancouver again by the first of November. 'I will get at least eighteen hundred dollars for playing hockey there this winter,' says Newsy."

It is like very much. They are fine people, and while I am able to play, I must make as much money as I can. One never knows—an accidental blow, or a fall, will put a man out of the game for good. So it is making my while the sun shines for me. Do you see the difference? They gave me for winning the cup and I should have a very fine gold watch.

"Funny," he continued, "the first I was ever knocked out of my series was in Vancouver. I hit my series four minutes before the end of the second quarter, and although they let me I walked off the field and into the dressing room. I did not return there again till the end of the last quarter. No one saw me hurt and never knew how I was hurt. I was in the hospital three days after that. After examining me all over the doctors finally found a sore spot on the right side of the head, but it never troubled me after."

"There had been some ugly talk about this having been put up just before that, that I would never play the season. I never paid any attention to that, however, and even now take no stock in it."

"I had not actually signed up yet, but unless the east can do much better for me in the way of salary than the west, I am going back."

PEG WILL NOT USE NEW HOCKEY RULES

PRESIDENT PRATT DECLARES THAT WINNIPEG WILL PLAY THE SEVEN MEN ASIDE GAME

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 2.—Hockey in Winnipeg will be played in the future as in the past, with seven men aside, according to J. D. Pratt, president of the Winnipeg hockey league and of the Victoria club, and he has discussed the matter with many local followers of the game. Seven men on each side has been found satisfactory to the western clubs, and there will be no change.

"Those behind the amateur game here cannot see where the professionals are to benefit by the reduction of the number of players. The clubs will have to carry as many men as in the past, and here will be more work for those on the ice, in consequence the men will be more open to injury, as the player is always easily hurt when the men come together. Then, it is pointed out that the game cannot be made faster by removing the connecting link between the forwards and the defence, and the question is asked, how is the play to be picked up when the forwards run over the back or miss a pass.

Another innovation of the professional body which will be ignored here is the rule permitting substitution of players at any stage of the game. The amateur considers that the adoption of this rule will be a drawback, as it will remove the incentive for the men to train hard to get in good shape for matches. When a player feels that he can wrap himself up when he is tired, there is less ambition for him to get in proper shape to continue for the full playing time.

BOWLERS PLAY AT CALGARY TODAY

BILL MATTHEWS HAS MADE THE TRIP TO ASSIST AND WILL STRENGTHEN TEAM

Behind some 198 points on the first half of a twelve game series played here last Saturday the local bowlers left for Calgary last night to play the remaining games, realizing that they will have to go some to catch up to the western clubs, and there will be no change.

ATHLETES OF TODAY PASS ANCIENT FEATS

Modern Achievements in Sports Greater Than Traditional Accomplishments

The feats performed by some of the modern athletes are referred to by the ancient achievements. But when closely examined and stripped of their traditional trimmings they are generally found to be quite creditable and sometimes comparatively common.

Take for instance, the story of Milo, says "Health Culture." Milo was the most famous athlete of ancient times, and his most spectacular feat was to take on his back a 4-year-old infant and carry it round the stadium. The infant may have weighed anywhere from 100 to 500 pounds. The distance it was carried was exactly 200 yards, or one-eighth of a mile, at a steady pace. There is no good reason for doubting the story, nor for growing excited over it, either. The porters of Constantinople make long journeys bearing on their shoulders a weight of 600 pounds. That is further told of Milo that, after carrying the infant around the stadium he killed it with a single blow of his fist. If it is assumed that the infant weighed 500 pounds, the feat is a bulky affair, but not unlike the feat of a modern athlete who carries a heavily weighted lead, and with such a weapon, a good heavyweight pugilist like Shadley, Jeffries or Jack Johnson would have little difficulty in slaying a cow with a single blow.

Then there is the well known story of a leader, who swam the Hellespont with the practice object of passing in an hour in the presence of his sweatshirt. Now the body of water which he swam was 1,100 yards long, and it is in these days called the Straits of the Dardanelles, and the distance is rather less than a mile. Compared with such a swim as that of Captain Webb across the Straits of Dover, a distance of twenty-one miles, Leander's performance seems not only creditable but insignificant.

Among the notable athletes of modern times the most remarkable was Ernest Menon, a native in the British navy. On a certain occasion, finding himself powerless in London and knowing that he must reach his ship at Portsmouth by rail or he would be late, he decided to swim across the English Channel. He swam the distance of twenty-one miles, and he was not only creditable but insignificant.

POISONOUS FOOD IN NEW YORK CITY

OVER 10,000,000 POUNDS CON-DEMNED SINCE FIRST OF THE PRESENT YEAR

New York, Nov. 3.—Since Jan. 1 the citizens of New York have been saved from eating 10,435,718 pounds of meat, fruit, vegetables, confectionery, groceries, fish and other food products which were not fit to eat. This amount has been seized and condemned by the health authorities of the city. How much of this unfit stuff has squeezed past the inspectors and gone into consumption there is no telling.

That it probably has been very great may be ascertained when it is realized that Father Knickerbocker's food bill at wholesale is pretty nearly $300,000,000 a year.

The courts have concluded to join in the crusade to free the people from buying rotten and poisonous food. Recently severe offenders have been sent to jail and the magistrates have announced that no leniency will be shown to dealers who are caught with the goods. Most of those so far caught were dealers from the lower part of the city, and the charges against them alleged the possession of decayed chickens, several condensed milk, spoiled corn-beet, dyed chopped meat, spoiled meat of all kinds, rotten eggs, bad butter and decayed fruits.

According to reports there are even worse articles in restaurants and stores such as painted fish, black, spoiled meat dipped in formaldehyde and rendered so as to look fresh; ice cream containing wool alcohol, candies containing poisonous dyes, and soda syrups made of coal tar.

A City of Hotels

New York is a city of hotels and its accommodations for strangers are unexcelled by those of any city in the world. Such is the extent of the business and variety of its interests, its cosmopolitan life, that there are always thousands of strangers in the city intent upon trade or pleasure or both.

For the accommodation of these strangers there is an infinite number of facilities ranging from lodging houses up to vast, modern hotels. There are 215 hotels in Manhattan alone, each containing at least fifty rooms and many of them containing hundreds. These 215 hotels provide 53,000 rooms for guests. They employ 12,000 persons in their operation, and the annual cost of conducting them is estimated at $55,000,000. The value of the hotels and their furnishings is computed at $174,000,000.

On account of the wonderful hotel facilities of New York, the city has always been regarded as the ideal one for holding conventions. Visitors to any extent can be comfortably housed at any time. In addition the multitude of times that interest visitors making trips on that mission is particularly inviting. Practically on the threshold of the world through the enormous shipping facilities which center here, persons of every nationality get a flavor of life in their old homes.

Moreover, New York is fast becoming noted as a great summer resort.

TAFT CANNOT VOTE THIS YEAR

Failed to Register Properly in His Voting Precinct in Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Nov. 3.—The president of the United States can't vote—that is, not this year. He failed to register properly in Cincinnati.

Mr. Taft heard the sad news today and when he discovered that his lease of registration laws was the real reason for his undoing, it is said he manifested expressions more or less in keeping with presidential dignity. Another reason that had to do with barring the president from the polls was lack of speed in the postal service.

The president's first registration papers were forwarded to Cincinnati with his "unsealed" signature. These were not acceptable under the law, so a new affidavit made in the presence of a notary was forwarded. This arrived too late.

The water polo match between Ireland and Scotland was easily won by the representative of the Thistle, who, in the absence of W. E. Morris, G. S. Duffell, and H. M. Taggart, found no difficulty in scoring 9 goals to the 2 goals scored by Ireland, a score which represents that by which England defeated Wales the previous Saturday.

There is hardly any one who has not noticed the extraordinary amount of building which has been accomplished in the Groat Estate during the past summer and the hammer is still going merrily.

We Predict About

RIVERVIEW

RIVERVIEW is the Groat Estate of the East part of this City. Look at it on the map and make the comparison for yourself. The lots are the same size, all big ones: 50 by 150 feet. There is the same beautiful view of the Saskatchewan. It is nearly all nicely treed with poplar of good size. It has Street Railway, Light, Water, Telephones, etc. Sewer Connection can be had from the big main in the spring. It is closer to the average man's office than 21st street. Take your ruler and measure just how near it is. You'll be surprised.

Our prediction is that you will see (as you have already seen in the Groat Estate) . . . . .

PHENOMENAL BUILDING ACTIVITY IN RIVERVIEW NEXT SPRING

We base our prediction on the information given us by the people who have purchased property for homes in Riverview.

Where the home builders are busy, there your money may be safely invested for a good return to you in a short time.
